Touring MLA sees future in ethanol

By Lyle Hamm
St. Paul Journal

Ethanol is the energy of the future, said MLA Derek Fox in an interview with the Journal last Thursday.

Fox, who was in Minnedosa,

Manitoba last week touring an ethanol producing plant, said that, "every attempt I have made to convince the government that ethanol is an industry that holds a lot of promise has met with resistance."

"Largely because the Conservative government here is closely linked to the oil industry and the oil industry isn't too keen on the ethanol alternative," said Fox.

Fox said that he has constantly hounded the government to consider ethanol as a fuel for its benefits to agriculture and especially the environment.

Still the Conservatives have, "steadfastly maintained that it can't work and it won't work and I have continually proved them wrong," said Fox.

The Conservatives dismissed the ethanol issue in the legislature, Fox said, adding that it would require substantial ongoing subsidies just to survive. Upon reviewing a study done by the Conservatives on the ethanol industry, Fox challenged them during question period in the legislature.

"I basically picked those reports apart because they were false, misleading and just filled with errors," said Fox.

"I think I made some headway in terms of showing that their conclusions were based on inaccurate information," Fox said.

The industry is alive and thriving in Manitoba and Fox believed that his tour of the plant in Minnedosa confirmed to him that this type of industry would be good to Alberta.

"It would provide jobs for Albertans," said Fox.

Fox went on to say that, "We have to be looking at renewable sources of energy very soon and ethanol fits that type of energy source."

Fox said that his journey into the Lakeland region was, "basically a mini-tour to have contact with the people and address some issues and concerns the people may have presently."

When asked about the Conservatives increasing the education grants across the province, Fox said, "I don't think that it will make a substantial difference."

"It is an admission on the part of the government that they have under-funded education, which is something that we, the official opposition, have been saying right along," said Fox.

"We have been pointing out to them that the quality of education, especially in the rural areas, is suffering because of their decision to transfer an ever-increasing amount of responsibility for funding onto the local rate payers."

"They're asking people in rural communities to dig deeper into their already empty pockets to help cover a greater share in education," said Fox.

"We've continued to point this out and now they have come forward and kicked a little more money into education," said Fox.

"It is a good sign that the government is feeling pressure from the opposition and we're going to keep hammering them," said Fox.

Constituency President Victor Chrapko of Brosseau, mural artist Billie Milholland, ND Outreach Officer Chris Ewasiuk and Federal Riding of Beaver River ND candidate Brian Luther. The four also toured the Canadian Salt Company plant at Lindbergh.

Campaign over top

Through the untiring efforts of countless volunteers, the Vermilion Unit of the Alberta Division, Canadian Cancer Society surpassed their campaign objective by over one third.

The objective set by the Division office for the entire area was $35,000, while the campaign total was $47,705.22.

The jurisdiction of the Vermilion Unit was increased in 1988 to include Bonnyville, Chauvin, Cold Lake, Edgerton, Elk Point, Grand Centre, Medley, St. Paul, Wainwright and surrounding areas. The Unit maintained all areas previously covered.

The following is a breakdown of the areas covered by the numerous volunteers: Bonnyville--$6,067.21; Chauvin--$2,176.50; Cold Lake--Daffodils; Edgerton--$2,300; Elk Point--$2,397.78; Grand Centre--no campaign; Medley--no campaign; St. Paul--$2,265; Wainwright-- urban$5,770.69, rural $2,181; Vermilion--urban $6,794.74, rural $4,232.65; Clandonald--$417.59; Paradise Valley--$3,839.50; Marwayne--$1,245.90; Kitscoty--urban $1,406, rural $1,373.25; Blackfoot--$300; Minburn--$637; Islay--$627; Myrnam--$667; Greenlawn--$123; Landonville--$663.50; Dewberry--$546.

The Society says that the generosity of the people in the unit area helps to keep the work of the Canadian Cancer Society viable. The funds received in Alberta are used in Alberta, for research, patient service, education and (a minimal 4 percent) for administration. For the year ending September 1987, $2.6 million was spent on research in Alberta.

The president of the Vermilion Unit is truly grateful to each and everyone who helped in any way to make the campaign such a success.

CLANDONALD PIT RUNNERS--took the 'B' Side honors in last weekend's 23-team ball tournament at Whitney Lakes Ballpark, collecting $500 prize money for their finals win over Kent's Kings. The Kings won $300, while the Huskies took third place and $125. In the 'A'

Side, the Brew Jays took home $800 for their defeat of the Hideaways, who collected $500. The Hosers were third, winning $150. Good weather and exciting ball action was enjoyed by players and spectators alike at the very successful tournament.

Tour highlights new agriculture forms

Over 100 participants enjoyed last week's County of St. Paul Agricultural Service Board Tour, which explored the latest trends in agriculture and horticulture while visiting various areas of the County. Again this year, the tour was divided into two interest groups, with approximately 70 persons on the Horticultural tour, while 30 took in the Agriculture tour.

Both tours visited Alain Jubinville's large and thriving market garden near St. Paul, noting with interest the many unique labor-saving devices which have been devised and put into use by the Jubinville family to simplify their 45 acre operation.

Two new forms of farming were also explored, with the tours visiting Doug Millar's Rainbow Trout Farm at Armistice and Don Mudryk's Silver Spur Game Farm in the Stoney Lake area.

Millar has been in the Rainbow Trout business for 5 years, and this year sold 45,000 trout fingerlings for restocking. With the use of a pumping system, Millar has successfully overwintered some of his trout, and is beginning to sell market size fish.

Visitors to the Silver Spur Game Farm met Rodney, the doughnut-munching yearling black bear, a pair of llamas, two bighorn sheep, a bull elk and a variety of birds. A tour through the farm's pastureland netted a glimpse of the 10 female elk, but the whitetail deer proved elusive. The Mudryks' handsomely landscaped yard also drew much attention.

The two groups met at the new Stoney Lake Municipal Recreation Area for lunch, and were welcomed by MLA John Drobot, who gave insight into the history of the scenic area as well as reciting some of his homespun poetry for the visitors.

The general interest tour also saw a fine example of landscape design at the home of 1987 Farmstead Beautification Acreage winners Adrien and Jeannine Chamberland of St. Paul. Trees and shrubs are surrounded by cement curbs lined with black plastic topped with washed gravel for an easy-care, eye-appealing design, accented at foundation and front area with bright flowering plants.

Smoky Lake District Agriculturalist Grant Gillund explained the principles of landscaping design as they are applied at the Chamberland home, and also gave a very interesting demonstration on the use of plastic garden tunneling and plastic mulch in the growing of cucumbers. The latter demonstration was at the home of Harry and Ann Palinka, St. Paul, also former Beautification winners.

The Agriculture portion of the tour visited the Therien area, where regional variety trial plots with over 100 varieties of 2- and 6-row barley, hard red spring wheat, oats and canola showed their relative merits to the interested group. Further trial plots, this time of 11 varieties of field peas, were visited at the St. Paul area farm of Romeo and Clement Fontaine.

The state-of-the-art St. Paul Municipal Cooperative Seed Cleaning Plant was another interesting stop on the Agriculture tour, with the visitors seeing the equipment which cleans approximately one half million bushels of cereal grains per year, as well as scalping about 2 million pounds of forage seed annually, to add up to one of the highest volumes of usage for a seed cleaning plant in this province.

Following the steak barbecue supper at the Credit Union Camp, St.

Vincent Lake, the annual awards for farmstead beautification and farm family were presented.

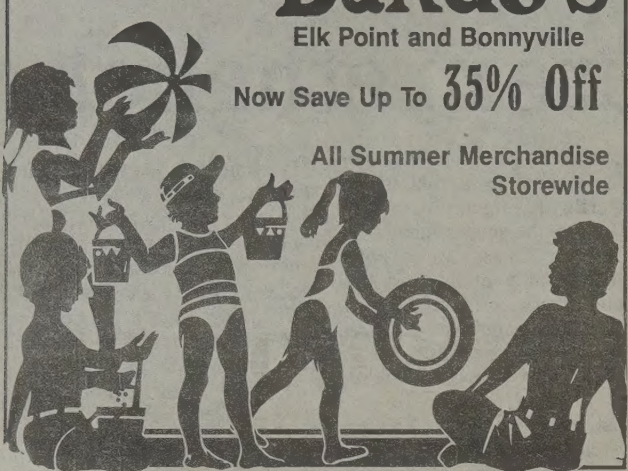

This year's Northlands Farm Family Award went to Bill and Alice Tymofichuk of the Lac Bellevue area, along with their children Evelyn and Robert. The Tymofichuk family is well known for their community and 4-H involvement, as well as for their well-kept farmstead.

The 1988 Farmstead Beautification

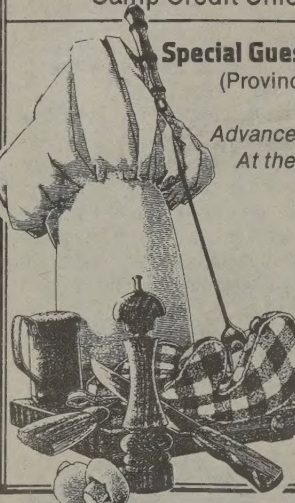

winners were Peter and Mary Mistol, Established Farmstead, Dave and Lorraine Roberge, Farmstead 14 Years and Under, and Don and Norma Cole, Acreage.

The day wound up with an informative and entertaining Pesticide Fashion Show, presented by District Home Economist Monica King, with the help of a group of volunteer models from the Agriculture Department.

ELK POINT LIONESSES--here represented by their Treasurer, Lee Johnson, make annual donations to the Elk Point Hospital of required articles. Mrs. Johnson presents Director of Nursing Diana Anderson with a digital baby scale, for use in the nursery. That smooth white object, barely showing behind the handclasp, will weigh a newborn in the easiest, safest method possible. Because of its electronic insides, the machine will probably work better and longer than anything else like it--and it also cost very near $1000.

Futures area awaits approval

By Bill Deleew
St. Paul Journal

Organizers are hoping the final draft proposal for a Community Futures Project, which could eventually see a resource centre promoting new business, will be approved by the Federal government.

The areas involved, St. Paul, St. Paul County, Elk Point, Saddle Lake, Good Fish and Smoky Lake, will be able to secure grant money if they can prove the area is economically depressed.

Representatives from these areas, along with Lawrence Remarchuk from Employment and Immigration, organized in February of last year and have drawn a draft attempting to show the area has been hard hit by layoffs, closures, chronic unemployment or economic decline.

St. Paul representative Randy Brodziak feels the area will qualify.

Social assistance and unemployment statistics are high enough to justify the program, he said.

If it is approved (sometime in August), Federal grants, totalling in the millions of dollars, could pour into the area over the next several years through the Community Futures project.

Money could go towards a business development centre that would administer an investment fund and advise to assist small businesses in getting established.

The centre "acts like a bank", Brodziak said, loans will be provided to people who would not likely get them in the regular banking institutions.

Brodziak said there has been no discussion to date as to where the centre should be located.

The Two Hills and Lamont Community Futures Project has secured a $2.5 million Federal grant, and a business centre will be established in Two Hills.

Other possibilities of the project are training assistance, relocation and exploratory assistance for people to move to jobs in other locales.

Summer's flying

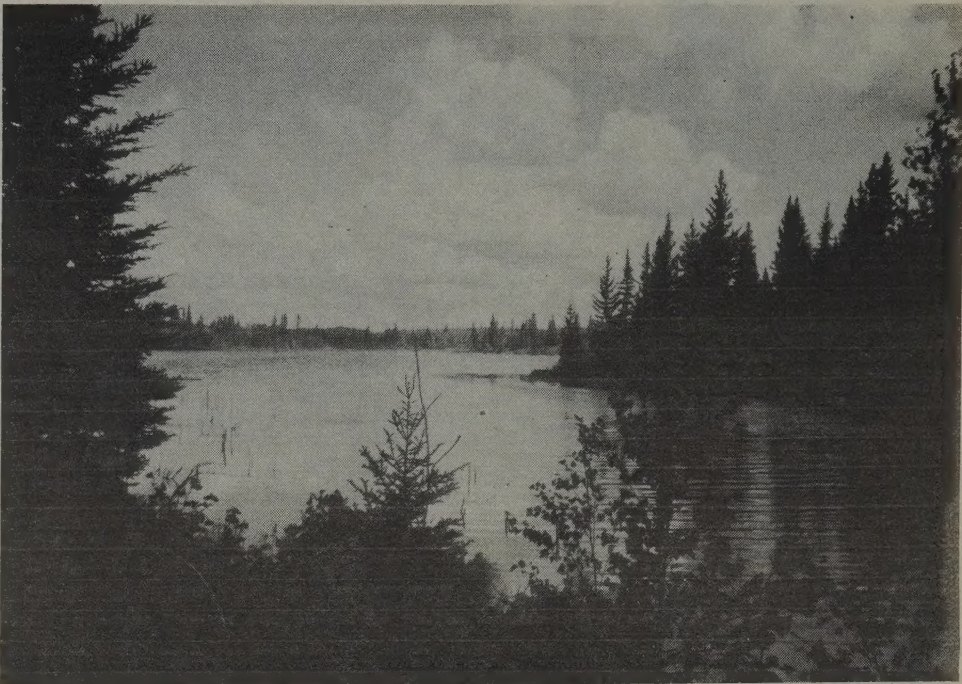

Don't look now, but we're running out of summer. every golf course from Kanas-kis to Kauai.

In just four weeks, the kids will head back to school. In 30 days, the rodeo season will draw to a close, as the finals get underway. The holidays have just one month to go before their traditional Labor Day end. Others have spent the summer thus far toiling in their gardens, over a boiling canner, or stacking bales in the broiling sun. 'We've got to get this done', they say, noses ever to the grindstone. No time for fishing, no time to enjoy the sunset, no time to smell the roses.

Before we know it, the swaths will turn the waves of ripening grain into tidy swaths in parallel lines across the fields. Leaves will change from green to gold, and gardens will feel the nip of frost.

Have we enjoyed summer yet? Hopefully, they, too, will get a chance to bask instead of broil, to rest in the shade, to take a day or a few days off, to do something just for fun. Work, they say, is always with us, and the long days of summer are all too few to get the tasks of the season done.

Some have, with trips to mountains, ocean, far-flung destinations. They have been to family reunions, on first or second honeymoons, on once-in-a-lifetime treks to unforgettable spots. Some have taken part in sporting events all over the country, while others have tried out But don't let winter come and find you with not a single summer pleasure to look back on. Take a break—you'll feel revitalized, and will work better for having had some time to play. Get out and enjoy—before the summer's gone!

THERE ARE COUNTLESS BEACHES AND COUNTLESS LAKES — In our beautiful Lakelands of Alberta calling out to us to come to them, to love and enjoy them, in our long (but far too busy) holiday season. - I. Magnusson

Alberta Trails

Busy holiday season

By Irene Magnusson

July and August have long been the months of holidays, time out from school, from the daily grind, times for lakes, the parks, the open roads. Long, long evenings, lazy mornings, a time to forget the clocks, to smell the flowers, to watch the bees.

But do we take this 'holiday' business seriously? Some of us work harder at holidaying than we ever did at working. How do you get kids up out of a warm nest, faces washed, shoes tied, beds semi-made—at the crack of dawn? Not to go to school! But let them in on the conspiracy that today is the DAY, we are off to the lake, they'll fall in and cooperate and make the fur fly to get ready in no time flat.

When my kids were small, there were no 'days' at the lake, we were lucky if we could get away for a day. It meant getting up at 5:00 a.m. to bring in the cows from the pasture, milk them, feed the calves, the pigs, the cats and the dog. Someone ran here, someone ran there, lunch was packed, beds were made, the vehicle was gassed up, tires checked. There usually was a scramble to find those miscellany of swimsuits, all the towels they could lay hands on, blankets and the thermos jug of fresh water.

Truly, those youngsters could perform miracles of speedy action—when the carrot was right. And I'm sure youngsters are no different today—nor were they any different when I was a kid. I can only remember going to the lake a couple of times when I was a child, and we went in a wagon, of course, which took longer, more bounces, even, than in a Model 'A', and usually the purpose was to pick blueberries, which kindly grew along the lake shores, and we'd pick some, too, but the highlight of the day was then, as now, that plunge into the cool blue waters. I can't imagine what the luxury to a child would be to stay at a lake for days and days, with truly nothing to do but play in the sand, look for fancy stones, watch the ducks and loons, gulls and sandpipers, explore the woods and wallow in the water for hours on end, until their skin turns blue, and their toes are full of wrinkles.

There are many summer-holidayers who 'go to the lake', and end up sitting in some so-called cottage, which is really a quite luxurious house, with running water, electricity, all the comforts of home, watching TV, or whatever, or out working around their territory, which they will have planted to grass (which they must then cut, fertilize, weed, pamper) and flowers (ditto) and a wealth of lawn furniture scattered about, all needing to be looked after. The 'cottage' will often be a half mile from the water, which can neither be seen or heard from there, all the wild flowers will have been cut down, trampled in, or spray-killed, to make way for the fancy lawn.

Said vacationers will be so busy 'looking after' their domain, they will have no idea what grows out there in the woods—saying there are any 'woods' left out there. Some of the less occupied areas of the beach can be found, if one searches, but they will be so full of beer cans and bottles, pampers, cigarette packages, plastic, papers and broken glass that no one in their right mind would want to linger there.

I expect I shouldn't say too much about the beaches and the lakes, and what they are like today, since I have not gone to any beach or lake at all this summer, beyond a quick trip to pick up my grandchildren way back in May. At that time, I noticed that the water seemed very low, the beach three times as wide as I remembered it, the boats anchored way out, and the cement launch strip high on the sand. Maybe it's higher now (the water, that is) and maybe something still grows out in the woods along the shores. One day—I will go and see...

Many of us, and I'll include myself in this bunch, have allowed ourselves to get so 'busy' that we no longer have time to do all those wonderful summery things we used to do. Do I have my tent up? No. It's too much bother to put it up—I'd probably never sleep in it anyway, even though there is nothing I love better than to hear the sigh of the wind in the pines (and I have lots of—well, not pines—but spruce comes close) or the drum of rain on a taut canvas roof.

Not once, all this long hot July, have I lain on a blanket in the grass and just closed my eyes and listened to the soft whisper of the aspen leaves, the chirps and twitters of birds, insect buzz, a faraway automobile drone. No, I'm much too busy. I have grass to cut, or water, or weed, or fertilize—and the garden to pluck weeds out of, hoe, prune, pamper. Then there are the darn berries to pick, and after they are picked, to clean, to can, to jam, to freeze—and to eat. All takes so much time.

Then I spend a certain amount of time here at this typewriter, and like everyone else, I cook my food and take my time eating it, and there are all those magazines to read, and books to read, and letters to write, and always that road to town to zip over when I want the mail, or groceries, or whatever. Even just to talk to someone—besides myself.

Today is my oldest son's birthday, and today he is sailing his boat down the Peace River to Ft. Vermilion, navigating a large reproduction of a steamboat that used to ply those waters, to one of Alberta's first permanent white settlements (the other being Ft. Chipewyan.) And I could have been with them!

He asked me to go, and I was sorely tempted, but I am also lazy, and couldn't face driving up that long, long road again so soon. This group of some 20 or so brave souls have taken off, hoping to arrive at Ft. Vermilion on August 1st, to coincide with celebrations marking the 200th anniversary of this settlement. What a trip it will be! Three hundred or so miles, on the sometimes racing waters of Peace River, down through those winding canyons! What birds and flowers, trees and hills will they see? (That I, chicken that I am, will not see!)

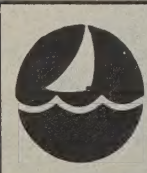

So. Back here, in my dull yard, with my encroaching trees, and my ever-demanding garden—what will I see? Very few people, I know that, but there is a fat brown rabbit that seems to have settled in to spend the summer in my pea patch. There are two young squirrels, who race up and down the branches, playing tag, it seems, and eating—or carting away—anything I put out in the feed dishes. They are welcome to their share of raspberries. Then there is a partridge out there, again, maybe with young ones? And another little animal, was it a weasel, a pocket gopher, or ??? So my busy holiday season goes.

WHAT'S NEWS at the Library

By Michelle Whitlock

This week, the elementary Summer Reading Program will be 'brushing up' on their painting skills. They will be experimenting outdoors with bubble painting, string painting and straw painting. The preschool program will also be painting up a storm as they participate in the making of the first Elk Point Public Library mural. The mural will be painted on a large roll of paper attached to the outside of the building. Painting shirts will be provided for those children who like to get into their fun. If you'd like to see what works of art the preschoolers can whip up, come and watch this Friday at 10:00 a.m.!

Last week, the preschool program was provided with some very special entertainment. The Elk Point Public Library's Reader's Theatre performed an all-time favorite called the 'Paper Bag Princess' by Robert Munsch. The performers were Doreen Mayner as the dragon, Kris Ann Maas as the Prince, and Michelle Whitlock as the Princess. The story seemed to be a success and the Library staff is already busy trying to put another Reader's Theatre together for sometime in the future. We also found that, once put to the taste-test, the home-made ice cream made by the elementary children last week was much better tasting and healthier than the store-bought ice cream.

This week, the Elk Point Public Library will be showing 'Black Beauty' for its weekly Thursday Matinee. The movie begins at 2:00 p.m. and it's FREE! See you there!

If the children would like to take out books after the movie, there are some new ones they should look at. This week we added four new books to the children's collection: Animal Riddles by Bennet Cerf, Little Black, A Pony by Walter Farley, The Puppy Who Couldn't Remember by Johnson Hill, and The Gate Crashers by Dennis Fertig.

Clandonald news

By Shirley Osinchuk

It's almost Fair time in Clandonald—Aug. 5 and 6—and this year the Fair promises to be 'bigger and better.'

With the theme 'Pioneer Days', there is the opportunity to demonstrate pioneer skills, whether you really used them in past years or have learned them out of interest. To name a few of the items in the new 'Pioneer Skills' in the display hall, there will be homemade soap, braided rugs, wine, rose hip jelly, darned socks, bannock, canned fish or johnny cake. There is still time to pick up a fair booklet at the Post Office and enter the displays.

A trophy will be presented to the person with the highest number of points in this category, as well as the usual trophies for points earned in the other display categories.

All the more usual displays will be there too, cooking, baking, crafts, hand work, and school displays. The Exhibit Hall, known in other seasons as the Arena, will be open from 10 a.m. till 5 p.m.. All entries are brought in between 1:00 and 3:00 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 5.

If exhibits are not your 'cup of tea' there will be something else to interest you. The only expense for the whole day will be for food, games or dancing.

The Board of Trade will be cooking their now famous Pancake Breakfast from 8:00 till 10:00, and early eaters can get started on Horseshoes at 9:00 a.m.

Plan to arrive early at the Hall parking lot if you have a parade entry. Lori and Ed Podhaniuk (853-2632) and Carrie and Lester Goldsmith (853-2158) will be organizing the parade, which will wind through town at 11:00 a.m.

At 12:00 noon, the Opening Speeches will take place on the Fair grounds at the west end of the arena, featuring Deputy Prime Minister Don Mazankowski and MLA Steve West among the dignitaries.

A new event is planned for the older teens, a Treasure Hunt. Teams of hunters, each team including two who are over 15, will follow clues to try to win the $20 prize.

Each year the pet show is more popular, and has more entries. Between the arena and the curling rink at 12:30 is the place to be.

Bingo will be in progress from 1:00 to 3:00 in the arena lobby. Also at 1:00, the Kids' Races take place, this year including a baby race.

Another Horseshoe Tournament will be organized at 1:00.

Weather permitting, parachuters will drop in at about 2:00 p.m.

Another first for the Clandonald Fair will be a Grandstand Show, on stage in the arena, featuring Ukrainian dancing, bagpipes, bands and other entertainers.

Some implement dealers will have machinery displays on the grounds, and the kindergarten will be holding a raffle, and giving you a chance to see your friends get all wet in the Dunk Tank. Join a team for a Tug Of War, or just visit with friends.

Are you tired yet? About 5:00 p.m. you will be able to relax at a Barbecue supper right there at the west end of the arena, then come alive again at a dance at 9:00 p.m.

See you at 'Pioneer Days' at the Clandonald Fair, Saturday, August 6.
